Moving from Romania to Belgium in order to pursue a career opportunity characterizes Adriana Petrescu (1981). She goes for it! Graduating in Human Geography at the Universitatea 'Alexandru Ioan Cuza' din Iasi (top of her class), she started out as a 'Human Resources' (HR) generalist, later moving to the IT-side of HR as a HR (Certified Solution) Consultant for SAP ERP (in addition to certifications for several SAP SuccessFactors modules). Joining Accenture in 2011, after stints at Ness Technologies, The Red Point and Emeritis (the 2010 opportunity), she continued combining her IT expertise and HR business skills in cross-border HR process projects (e.g. today as an EU Global Process Lead for a global product company, deploying Global HR processes in 22 countries).

Adriana Petrescu is deeply convinced that 'women belong in the IT world and that diversity makes a team stronger'. She shares her expertise with colleagues and offers support within Accenture's global network, having joined the Expert Career Track in 2016. Through Accenture's Corporate Citizenship program, she also volunteers as mentor at Connect2Work, the Antwerp based foundation helping highly skilled migrants to integrate in the Belgian labour market (finding positions matching their training, expertise and ambitions). And certainly, she wants to reach out to young women at recruiting events and through social media, to persuade them to go for an IT career. Of particular interest is that Adriana Petrescu successfully combines such a career with being the mother of a three-year-old son, still having time to 'cut his drawings and sticking them on the furniture' and 'giving him a hand with his puzzles'.
